

SURVEYING & MANAGEMENT

Within the construction and property arena, we recruit across a wide range of specialisms which includes surveying and management.

Surveyors play an integral role in development; from land planning to structural reports, surveyors calculate, highlight and account key information from the design, throughout construction and property maintenance. The individuals need to be knowledgeable, have thorough attention to detail, analytical and problem solving skills.

Property management encompasses a wide range of roles and responsibilities to ensure a building is maintained safely, securely and continues to operate profitably and efficiently. When it comes to project management, individuals need to be extremely organised. They are responsible for the management of both people and materials throughout an entire construction project to achieve predetermined objectives, costs, timescales and quality.

We qualify our candidates in great detail, delving into project experience, certifications held and studies undertaken. We work with our clients to understand the scale and detail of projects to ensure we find the right individual to fulfil each unique requirement.
